We carefully analyse each potential case and provide our institutional clients with a recommendation on whether or not to become active on a specific case. We work in close collaboration with U.S. law firms to deal with aspects related to U.S. law. Deminor assists its clients in every step of the litigation, whether or not they take an active role in the case.

Institutional investors can fully outsource the management of their asset recovery to us. We arrange investor syndicates, undertake fact finding, build legal arguments on the basis of an in-depth financial analysis of each case, assist lawyers with litigation work, arrange financing and insurance against litigation risk, and carry out all back-office work. We work with external law firms having extensive experience in securities litigation.

By entrusting their securities litigation work to us, investors can recover their losses wherever possible and fulfil their fiduciary duty while focusing on their investment management activities.
